Edgerton News

[By Gazette Correspondent.]
Edgerton, Sept. 25.—Mrs. W. T. Pomeroy is ill at her home on Catlin street.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Maltress were Janesville visitors Thursday. Mrs. Maltress is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Pomeroy and has sold her home on Blaine street to Harry Huseon.

Mrs. Norman Brokaw and children of Edgerton, Wis., are visiting at the home of her father, D. W. North, Rollin street.

Mrs. Alfred Skar, Stoughton, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ole Jensen, West street.

Mrs. James Keller entertained the Monmouth circle Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Keller is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Jensen, Stoughton, and is visiting at the home of her father, Mr. Jensen, Stoughton.

The annual mission festival will be held in the Northside Lutheran church next Sunday morning and afternoon. No evening service.

Congregational church, C. L. Atkins, pastor, 10 a. m. Church school. Every member urged to be promptly on time. 10:30 a. m., combined Rally for church school and church. The church school will first present exercises which will be followed by the regular service. Address by the pastor. Subject, "Why People Should Not Go to Church," Special music.

E. M. Ladd bought the Arnold Slag farm, paying therefor $400 per acre. This is a beautiful farm, located on the edge of town, and is being sold by Mr. and Mrs. Slag, who have lived on it for many years. The farm is being sold by Mr. and Mrs. Slag, who have lived on it for many years.

City property is rapidly changing hands and many who have rented homes for years are now purchasing homes of their own, featuring a dearth of houses in the future. The new factory now rapidly being built for the manufacture of motor truck and automobile axles and other transport accessories, will require many men who must be provided with housing accommodations. A housing corporation has recently been incorporated to plan and build to overcome the housing problems this city is now confronted with. The incorporators are A. McIntosh, C. Birkmeier, and E. C. Biederman. A stock soliciting committee will be appointed at once for the sale of stock.

At a well attended meeting of the chamber of commerce and other citizens at Library hall, for the purpose of planning a homecoming for the returned soldiers, it was agreed that in lieu of a "blow-out" as usually planned for such occasions, to expend the money already contributed in fitting up a lot of club rooms for the use of the boys. These rooms will be open for the use of all returned soldiers, sailors and marines.

Harvey Raymond, who has acted as secretary of the chamber of commerce since its organization, has resigned to accept a position with the Highway Trailer company. Mr. Raymond, in company with L. A. Anderson, will have charge of the company's business.

Upwards of 6,000 sheep from the west were unloaded at the local feed yards before shipping to market. Mr. Biederman, manager of the yards here, predicts an unusual volume of business this season.

NEW INVENTION MAY ABOLISH "HELLO GIRL"

The photographs show a man taking a wireless telephone message with the new telephone which requires no central, and below is Dr. Lee De Forest, the inventor.

How the impatient business man ought to thank Dr. Lee De Forest for his new invention which is supposed to do away with that "number, please—line's busy—here's your party" imp called central. Dr. De Forest claims that a wireless telephone with which you can reach any person within 20 miles and which requires no central will soon be in operation.

NEWS FOR BOYS AND GIRLS

Outside of School

"APPLE PICKERS, INCORPORATED."

By J. H. Millar.
The boys were out for a bicycle tour of the country. A tree with big, luscious apples hanging over the fence invited them to stop for a short moment.

Along came a husky farmer. The boys were departing. "What's your hurry, boys?" he said. "Eat all you want of them. I have so much to do now that they will have to go to waste, that's all. Eat 'em up."

"You don't mean to say that all these bally apples are going to waste, do you?"

"Yes, that's just what I mean," replied the farmer, as he went on. "Let's see if we can't get the job of harvesting these apples," said Fred Hopkins.

"We can come even and pick them. Jim can get his dad's Ford and cart our share back to town."

"Sure, boys," said the farmer, "pick the apples, and keep half of them. Sell the other half and send me the cash."

The boys took the contract, agreeing to share the profits among themselves in proportion to the number of hours each put in at the job. Fred Hopkins was elected business manager. He kept account of the apples picked and took charge of selling.

Orders were secured in advance so that, as apples were brought into town in Jim's Ford, they went right to the cellar of the consumer. The farmer got higher prices for his half because the boys saw to it that no middleman took any profits.

"Why sell all these now?" suggested Fred. "People will want these apples next winter. They will keep better in a big pit than in sacks in so many damp cellars."

"Then," said his father, "sell them for future delivery. Sell them at present prices and charge 5 cents a bushel a month for storage. Open a new pit about once a month and you will be selling apples here all winter."

No wonder the boys and girls of that town had apples to eat all the year. No wonder a bunch of boys had money in the bank.

DEALERS PREPARE FOR TRUCK EXHIBIT

Local auto dealers made preliminary arrangements for Janesville's reception to members of the motor truck train which will visit the city next Thursday, at a special meeting held at the Myers hotel last evening.

The plan was advanced to have all of the 25 trucks participating in the 3,000-mile tour parked along the streets bordering on the courthouse park. Efforts will be made to secure permission to carry out this part of the program.

Headed by a navy band, the trucks will arrive in Janesville from Madison about 3:30 Thursday, Tuesday. They will leave for Milwaukee early the following morning.

An advance agent of the train is expected to be in Janesville, Tuesday. All that time arrangements for housing the drivers over-night and caring for the trucks will be completed.

HIGH SCHOOL CLASSES COMPLETE ELECTIONS

With the election of the Juniors last evening all classes have their officers for the year.

After school the Junior class elected the following officers: Junior B. Raymond McCue, president; Louise Ford, vice-president; Myrtle Short, secretary and treasurer; Junior C. Chad Newman, president; Margaret Bailey, vice-president; Henry Tall, secretary and treasurer; Miss Mable Keese, class advisor.

Excellent work the cattle judging team of the high school did at the state fair at Milwaukee, was the subject of the talk Allen B. West, instructor in agriculture, gave at the high school at morning exercises, today. He also commended the work of Harry McCann in raising blooded stock which resulted in his winning first place in the baby beef exhibit at the state fair.

Ten high school girls, who will sing a campaign for the sale of food-stamp tickets were appointed last evening at the close of school by C. E. Zimmerman, coach of the football team. It is the plan of the campaign to sell 500 tickets in the high school alone. The business places will also be visited. As in former years, a prize will be awarded to the tickets sold for $1.25 paying on the installment, or $1.10 cash.

Those who will conduct the campaign are Louise Ford, Dolores Krahmer, Katherine McManus, Ruth Francis, Patricia Muggleton, Jean McNamara, Rosemary Biederman, Edna Spier, Beatrice Field, and William Decker.

Adams Scores Lead; Keep Dollars Swelling Is Slogan of Schools

The Adams school scored first place in the sale of thrift and war saving stamps which started in the schools, grade and parochial schools today. All of the schools in the city totaled $327.20.

Friday is the day set aside in the schools for selling the dollars. Each Friday the principals of the schools and the rural carriers distribute the stamps. Postmaster J. J. Cunningham canvassed today.

The schools are increasing the sale over last year's record. "Little Lessons in Thrift," a booklet containing suggestions for teaching thrift in the schoolroom, has been mailed to the rural teachers, Sept. 10. D. Antisdel announces. The lessons are sent to the teachers semi-monthly. They may be used in connection with the arithmetic, language, and reading work.

"Keep the Dollars Swelling" is the slogan which the children have adopted in connection with the thrift work.

Schools Enlisted in State Potato Fight

"Watch for the Potato Wart Disease," a paper which the new disease which has proved so dangerous to the potato crop, has been sent out to the rural teachers in connection with the agricultural work.

The paper was gotten out by the Wisconsin experiment station. While the disease has not taken hold of the potato crop in this state, still it is considered wise to watch for it and be prepared to treat it. Small spongy masses growing near the eye of the potato are symptoms of the disease, the paper says.

A manual entitled "Safeguarding the Home Against Fire" has been received by Supt. D. D. Antisdel. Copies of the pamphlet will be mailed to the rural teachers.

Vocational Night School to Open in October

Plans are under way for the night school which will open in this city some time in October. J. M. Dorrans, vocational school superintendent, announced this morning.

The program is being arranged, teachers are being employed, and the necessary equipment is being prepared, he said. A complete program of the courses which will be offered at the night school will soon be made public by placards in the store windows.

Clinic to Be Held at Mercy Hospital

Janesville's surgeons will hold a clinic at Mercy Hospital Tuesday afternoon at which time the Rock County Medical association will meet.

Dr. Wayne Munn of this city is the president of the association. Plans are being made by a committee, composed of Mrs. Fred Shelton, Mrs. John Rexford and Supt. H. H. Prout for the opening of the dental clinic which will be maintained in the city hall.

Spotless Complexion Easy to Have Provided You Make Use of the Wonderful Calcium Sulfide in Stuart's Calcium Waters.

The camera catches the expression, but it cannot show the beauties of these natural tints of a beautiful complexion. In fact a sweet expression is made a hundred times more enchanting when the complexion is lovely.

All you need to do is to clear the skin of pimples, blotches, liver spots, blackheads, muddy complexion and skin eruptions by using Stuart's Calcium Waters. These troubles seek the skin as one of the natural outlets of the body. And if you supply it with the proper materials it will pass on in the pores of the skin instead of ugly accumulations. Get a box of Stuart's Calcium Waters in any drug store at 50 cents. You will then realize what it means to be prettier than your picture.

MISSING OAK PARK BOY SOUGHT HERE

Has anyone information concerning the whereabouts of 15-year-old Charles Simmons?

His mother at Oak Park, Ill., is nearly frantic over his strange disappearance. Although he is believed to be in Janesville, a city-wide search conducted by his uncle, Dr. W. W. Morrison, Edgerton, has proved fruitless and the parents are at a loss to know what to do.

He is described as being tall and slender with complexion fair.

AFTERMATH IN BOSTON.

News of the police strike at Boston has been crowded off the first pages by other stories of conflict and violence, but a visitor found a day or two ago that the situation is still interesting.

The state guardsmen are to be seen everywhere, and even though Boston is now normally quiet, they continue to give the best exhibition of efficient policing ever seen in an American municipality. These guardsmen did not go to war; they were recruited while the regular national guardsmen of Massachusetts were fighting in France as a part of a famous Yankee division. If they ever had any misgivings as to their being "tin soldiers," these militiamen may rest easy in their minds now, because they have proved themselves. They are a fine, clean-cut, soldierly-looking lot of men, who know exactly what to do. They will stand no nonsense.

One of these men was acting as a traffic officer when a prosperous-looking individual drove up in a big automobile. The soldier signaled him to stop, but he kept on going. "Bang! Bang!" spoke the soldier's rifle, and two rear tires suddenly went flat.

"Watch me take this boob's gun away from him," said a hoodlum to his gang. He ignored the command to halt, given by a country-boy guardsman, and advanced to wrest away the lad's rifle. Next instant the hoodlum lay on the pavement, shot dead.

Boston residents have no mawkish sympathy for those who have been shot by guardsmen. They say stern measures were absolutely necessary to get the situation in hand, so unruly were the rioters. A Harvard student, among those who volunteered to keep order when the police quit, was cornered by a gang of roughs, picked up and flung bodily through a plate glass window. The beastliness of the mob could be tamed only by bullets.

"No matter how much you may have read about that first wild night," said an old Boston newspaper man to the visitor, "you cannot appreciate what it was like. One had to see what was going on to realize the horror of it. Every unaccompanied woman on the streets of Boston was assaulted. The whole truth has never been printed. Window after window was smashed, and men could be seen inside lighted stores, fitting themselves with hats and shoes. The instinct to destroy was so strong that big plate glass windows were smashed in places where there was nothing to steal. Next day the streets of Boston had an odd look, due to the fact that not a single woman dared to come out. We had an Eve-less Eden."

Work of recruiting a new police force from men recently in service is going on steadily. There are plenty of applicants.

Meanwhile, the admiration and appreciation of Bostonians for the militiamen is akin to the feeling for the boys who have fought in France.

HOW TO DESERVE LOYALTY.

The municipal employees of New York city, we read, have decided not to unionize and affiliate with the American Federation of Labor, on account of the adverse sentiment of the mayor and the public. Thus the residents of our largest city will be spared the fear of being lost without protection against criminals and fires in case of disagreement over wages.

No doubt this decision will be approved by the majority of people all over the land. We shall all be safer if public employees have but a single alliance to keep in mind.

There is a growing disposition, however, to recognize the fact that those public servants have a petition worth hearing. When policemen and firemen give the people long hours, often at peril of life and limb, they deserve more pay than just enough to keep their families going. Unskilled labor is often paid more now than some of the members of the fire and police departments.

Our municipalities generally should prove to their faithful defenders the lack of necessity for unions by voluntarily giving them the pay that present conditions warrant. When we ask for loyalty, we must not forget that we have a part to perform, too.

AUGUST EXPORTS SHOW INCREASE.

The decline in our export trade indicated by the July figures did not continue in August, according to a statement just issued by the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, department of commerce.

Exports during August amounted to $78,000,000 more than in July, being valued at $646,000,000. In August last year the total was $527,000,000. For the eight months ended with August exports were valued at $5,275,000,000, against $4,000,000,000 for the corresponding months in 1918.

August imports amounted to $308,000,000, a decrease of $35,000,000 as compared with July but a gain over the $273,000,000 recorded in 1918. For the eight months ended with August imports increased from $2,061,000,000 in 1918 to $2,263,000,000 in 1919.

Now that the American and National league pennants have been won, local baseball fans are figuring the world series' dope. One fan who had to have an excuse for staying out after midnight, recently told his wife that he had been chosen as one of the debaters on the subject of baseball supremacy with the White Sox and Cincinnati Reds as particular contenders, and could not get away sooner. It is said the excuse got by.

A member of congress has declared that the majority of those employed in the steel industry who have ardently favored the strike are foreigners from countries in Europe for which our soldiers fought and died and for which the people left at home in this country dug deep in their pockets to provide comforts. This should furnish food for thought for those of this nation who believe in fair play.

It is said that in some cities the coal dealers are advertising their wares. That may be taken as a hopeful sign by those who have experienced the difficulty in getting coal in the past.

The movie business should be prosperous now that it has been decided that the daylight bill will no longer be operative after the last Sunday in October. The farmers will have a chance to take in the shows.

SUCCESS.

I bring them gold who seek me not
For what I bring of gold alone;
I bring them fame who strive to claim
More than the laurel wreath I own;
I bring all things that men desire,
And every joy which men deserve,
If they will bear their daily care
And labor with a will to serve.

They must not seek me for my fame,
Nor follow me for selfish gold;
They must not ask an easy task,
To gain the treasures that I hold;
For I shall spurn the selfish man
And leave him by his race accursed,
But I shall crown with my renown
The man who ranks his service first.

I'm neither yellow gold nor fame,
Nor days of ease, though all I bring;
I'm just the man, and greater than
The jeweled crown which marks the king.
I am the will to be of use,
Whatever the place man may possess,
Who does his best shall meet the test,
A task well done is real success.

Their Opinions

English writers are always wondering at American abbreviations. London correspondent of a New York paper refers to "The Bucks, Beds and Herts Gun Club." Being interpreted, this is to say, "The Buckinghamshire, Bedfordshire and Hertfordshire Gun Club."—Wisconsin News (Milwaukee).

Although rather hazy as to the politics of both gentlemen we should say that Ole Hanson and General Pershing were the most promising material for presidential candidates now in the public eye.—Wausau Daily Record-Herald.

From the days of John Paul Jones the American navy has been an inspiring theme. Secretary Daniels' idea is that it ought to command the interest and care of the country, even when we are not at war.—Milwaukee Journal.

And some people think it mighty strange, when the teacher has only about 10 minutes a day for each individual child, that they don't all turn out statesmen and captains of industry.—Marquette Eagle-Star.

Belgian royalty is to visit Milwaukee after all. The invitation isn't extended by the mayor of that city, but that doesn't matter. The show will go right on just the same. Fond du Lac Commonwealth.

The United Mine Workers have declined to join in a sympathetic strike to help out the steel workers. Apparently the miners think they have troubles enough of their own.—Oshkosh Northwestern.

When restraint is lifted, people follow their natural bent. And it is an odd commentary on Boston culture that 2,000 natives shot craps on the street when the police went on strike.—Beloit News.

All that hustle and bustle and those moans of near-anguish represent the despairing efforts of the renters in their vain quest for quarters that cannot be found.—Fond du Lac Reporter.

The senate reservations don't really matter. Future generations will do their own interpreting, anyway.—La Crosse Tribune.

The hard working college boys now proceed to burn midnight oil trying to get into the fraternities.—Marquette Herald-News.

"How Do You Get So Sunburnt?"

Confiscated Liquor

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN, Director

Janesville Daily Gazette Information Bureau, Washington, D. C.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 26.—How would you like to have the responsibility of guarding one hundred thousand dollars worth of liquor, which you were not allowed to use or dispose of in any way?

That is the situation of Edward B. Hesse, chief clerk of the Washington police force, and guardian angel of the liquor which the capital cops take away from the bootleggers, and others.

This situation in Washington is interesting because it is one that many would like to have. Of course, this liquor in Washington was confiscated under the Reed amendment, which applies to the District of Columbia alone. The framers of this law failed to provide any method for the disposal of confiscated liquor. But the framers of the national law, which went into effect next January, did not better. An official of the internal revenue department was asked how liquor confiscated under this law was to be disposed of without violating the law, and he said he did not know, unless the liquor was destroyed. But to destroy it would be an enormous pouring millions of dollars in alcohol down sewers.

Doesn't Want to Waste It.
Mr. Hesse does not want to do this with the hundred-thousand dollar's worth that has fallen to his care, and he does not know what else to do with it.

The collection contains numerous brands of liquor. There is cheap, there are also some high-class brands of rye and bourbon which would bring fancy prices if placed upon the market. It is all bottled in different places and quantities. Mr. Hesse says he never saw so much booze at one time before, even in the wettest days of the capital.

A number of persons from whom liquor was taken, contend that it was taken away from them illegally, and they have entered suits against the police. These cases are now pending. But a large part of the liquor will never be claimed by the persons to whom it was taken. It has become the embarrassing property of the police department.

Mr. Hesse is much opposed to destroying the liquor by putting it in the Potomac, as he feels that this would be a willful waste of something that could be made use of for medicinal or scientific purposes. He feels that alcohol is worth much money and could be used industrially. Several of the hospitals in the District of Columbia have asked for a supply of the liquor, but the law does not permit the clerk to dispose of it in that fashion.

Want Liquor for Medicine.
Not only the hospitals, but individuals as well, have tried to get some of this collection to use for medicinal purposes. They were refused. The collection is of middle-aged called at one of the police precincts and said that her son was ill with "flu." She explained that when he had a fever she would give him a glass of whiskey, and that she did not have the money to buy whiskey now. She asked the officer in charge of the police station if he would give her just one good dose for her son from the confiscated supply.

Some Washington physicians agree with this colored woman that good whiskey is the only thing that will cure influenza. They are strongly advocating that the liquor in the hands of the police be placed at the disposal of the medical fraternity for their patients in case of a return of "flu." This fall as predicted a few days ago by Dr. Blue, head of the United States public health service. These physicians claim that liquor was the only thing that gave relief to their patients during the epidemic a year ago, and now the poor people, who did not have money to stock up before the country went dry, will have a hard time getting liquor for medicinal purposes.

This liquor in the possession of the police has been piling up ever since the national capital went dry. Out of the liquor, under the terms of the Sheppard law. This act made it possible for an individual to bring liquor into the district for his own personal use, and under that heading a great quantity of spirits was brought in. It was difficult for the police under the Sheppard law to get evidence against any one doing an illegal importing trade, as invariably the excuse was that the liquor was being brought in from Baltimore or some other nearby wet town for personal use.

The police made several arrests under this law, but they soon gave up trying to prevent importation, because the courts would not convict. For example, a colored man was arrested by the police on the highway leading into Washington from Baltimore with three hundred half-pints of liquor in his possession. He asserted that it was for his own use, but the police refused to believe him, when they learned he had not been working, and didn't have enough money to buy such a large quantity of liquor for himself. This case was

ASK US

Q. Is it necessary for an American to secure a passport to go to Canada?
A. Yes.

Q. The state department says that it is not necessary for a citizen of the United States to secure a passport to go across the line into Canada.
A. Honey, honey, that's real value, and is considered healthful.

Q. Does national prohibition become effective January 1st?
A. The prohibition law, which will make the country permanently dry, does not go into effect until January 15, 1920.

Q. Did the British bombard Jerusalem when they captured it?
A. General Allenby and his army did not fire upon Jerusalem as he did not wish to destroy the Holy Place, with its shell-fire. Instead he captured the city with bayonets.

Q. When and where did the Germans first use poisonous gas?
A. Poisonous gas was first used by Germans during the engagement near Ypres on April 22, 1915.

Q. What is the derivation of the word "Yankee"?
A. It is said to have been derived from a corrupt pronunciation by the Indians of the word "English." They pronounced it "Yengoes," "Yenghis," "Yanghis," and finally "Yankees."

Q. What fish are most abundant near the banks of Lake Michigan?
A. B.

Q. The white fish is the principal fish caught there. However, there are a great many other fish, such as black hake, perch and lake trout.
A. Why can't we see all of the moon all the time, just as we see the sun?
P. J.

Q. The various aspects of the moon depend upon its position in relation to the earth and to the sun. Only the part facing the sun is illuminated by the sun's rays. The whole illuminated portion can be seen from the earth only when the sun, earth and moon are nearly on a straight line, and the moon is between the sun and the earth. That is what causes a full moon.

Q. Is it possible for an enlisted man in the navy to buy his discharge?
A. Yes.

Q. The navy department says that it is not possible to buy a discharge, or has some good reason for wishing a release from the service, he should apply to his commanding officer for discharge.

TRAVELETTE

By NIKSAH.

SEVILLE.
Spring is the time to go to Seville. Then the acacias and most of the other trees in the plazas burst suddenly into pale verdure, the orange trees are heavy with blossoms and the air is heavy with their scent, while in the bosom of almost every woman is either a carnation or a rose.

The city is an old and beautiful one, with all its houses washed in soft, bright colors, and with many windows and doors and railings of beautifully wrought iron-work in the Moorish manner.

In spring, too, Seville is a city of festivals. There is a great religious procession on Easter day when the figures of the Virgin are carried through the streets. This procession is one of the most spectacular in the world, where the growth of skepticism has caused some of the ancient religious customs to fall into disuse.

It is characteristic of Spain that immediately after the religious ceremonies are over the finest bull fights of the season are held within sight of the cathedral towers. For in Spanish view, religion and pleasure go hand in hand.

Around the State

Need to Leave Paying Field.
Neenah—The Neenah civic association is to leave a tract of land adjacent to the southwestern limits of the city which will be suitable for a flying field and landing place for aviators.

Aids War Refugees.
Neenah—Neenah is still contributing to the relief of war-stricken Europe. At the last meeting of the war fund committee, contributions were made to the Belgian, Armenian and Syrian relief fund.

Tohucos Co. to Build.
La Crosse—The Tohucos Co., a tobacco company has decided to build a concentration station in this city which will employ 300 persons at the plant. The structure will have 10,000 feet of floor space.

Fish Saved from Suffocation.
La Crosse—A crew of seven men, working three months, under Supt. C. F. Culler of the rescue work department of the United States bureau of fisheries, in this vicinity, has rescued 320,000 fish from suffocation in land locked waters according to a report made public here Monday.

The men have worked between Bollinger, Iowa, and Lake Pepin. Over 100,000 fingerlings have been rescued since Aug. 3 and over 100,000 will be in good water by winter, more fish than had been propagated in all the government fish hatcheries, it is claimed.

City Rule Fight On.
Green Bay—Forces are being organized in Green Bay by supporters and opponents of the commission form of government. An election to decide whether the city will remain under the commission rule or go back to the aldermanic rule will be held in November, and a campaign will be waged by both sides to the contrary. The city has been governed by a commission of three men since April 1, 1916, and the greater progress has been made since the close of the war, when public improvements could be made. Friends of the commission form believe the city is facing an era of industrial expansion and that will be the basis of their effort to defeat the efforts of those responsible for the agitation to oust the commission.

Paper Co. to Be Increased.
Marquette—The Victory Tag and Paper company of this city has filed articles at Marquette increasing its capital stock from $100,000 to $250,000. This is to provide for building and equipping a large addition which is to be completed by the end of 1920. Two stories will be added to the large brick and stone building in which the company is housed. The company located in Marquette just a year ago.

Boy Scouts Boosted.
Marquette—Local civic and fraternal organizations have united in a movement to stimulate the organization of Boy Scout troops in this city. The sum of $10,000 will be raised by popular subscription to induce the engagement of a scout supervisor for three years.

Cops Not Busy, Citizens Use Them for Odd Jobs

Steubenville, Ohio.—With arrests showing a reduction from 400 to 60 in a month because of prohibition, the question of what to do with the policemen is the burning question. Citizens understanding the situation have sought out the idle cops for different odd jobs. Desk records at the police station show that there were 11 calls from women who wanted their automobiles cranked, one from a business man who wished three mice killed, three calls from women who wanted dead rats buried, one call to exterminate a swarm of bugs about an are light, and four calls from women shoppers who mislaid their purses.

Cardinal Mercier Will Not Visit Wisconsin

Madison, Sept. 26.—Cardinal Mercier of Belgium will be unable to come to Wisconsin on invitation of Gov. E. L. Phillips. The telegram to the cardinal was sent by the governor at the request of the people of Green Bay in whose midst are many people of Belgium descent. He has replied that much as he would like to come he has been "talked about, and could not stand it any longer."

a dusty country road by the Arkansas river. The details of the president's indisposition were not revealed, but it was indicated that he had a slight touch of indigestion. Dr. Grayson thought it would pass away quickly if Mr. Wilson remained quietly in bed, but said he would insist upon absolute rest.

President Wilson's train left Wichita at 11:27 o'clock this morning. Secret Message to Wichita. Later the following statement was issued from the train:

"To the people of Wichita: It is with sincere regret that I am unable to meet the fine people of Wichita and Kansas, to lay before them all the facts regarding the treaty of peace and the league of nations. I know with what candor they would desire to treat this important matter, and I am confident that their judgment of the facts would be a real disappointment to me that I must leave Kansas without having the pleasure of again coming into personal contact with them."

Just before the train left Wichita it was said the president was feeling better and was sitting up.

SIGNS PLACED.
Two large signs, "Quiet Zone Hospital" have been installed on each side of the Mercy hospital on North Washington street.

TICKETS ARE SCARCE.
Several local baseball fans who have applied to Charles Comiskey, president of the White Sox, for tickets to the game going to be disappointed. Several applications were returned to fans here yesterday with the information that all seats were sold. It is said that grand stand seats are now selling for $12.

SEEK LICENSE.
Emil Johnson and Anna Larson, both of Rockford, have applied for a marriage license.

MAIL SERVICE EXTENDED.
City delivery mail service has been extended so that it takes in the new residences on North Garfield avenue and Sherman avenue, which is just off Milton avenue.

POLICE ASKED TO SEARCH FOR AUTO

Members of the police department were given instructions today to watch all roads leading into Janesville from Rockford for an automobile stolen from in front of the Palace theater, Rockford, last night. The thieves are believed by the Rockford police to be headed toward Janesville.

The car bears the license number Illinois 151438.

BANJOIST TO GIVE PROGRAM AT Y. M. C. A.

The first of a series of Saturday night free entertainments at the Y. M. C. A. will be given tomorrow evening at 8:30 when Dr. Grazio, Italian banjo-comedian, will put on a half-hour act. The entertainment will be given in the main lobby of the building. All Y. M. C. A. members and friends are invited to attend.

Dr. Grazio is known throughout the country as a high class entertainer. He performs all possible stunts with the banjo and brings in plenty of comedy to put over his act.

More entertainments of this nature are planned for the winter months by Secretary J. A. Steiner.

LODGE NEWS

The Knights of Columbus will participate in the welcome celebration which will be held in this city Oct. 8, 10, 11 and 12. The Knights of Columbus will be held in their club rooms. After the business meeting on Monday, Oct. 10, the program will be given. Rev. Charles Olson and May or T. E. Welsh responded to the call for speeches. A buffet lunch was served to almost 100 members and friends. At the next meeting State Deputy W. J. Nuss, Kenosha, and District Deputy D. M. Duggan, Delavan, will be present to assist in the installation of new officers.

About 75 couples enjoyed the dancing party which the G. U. G. gave last evening at the regular meeting in the West side I. O. O. F. hall. Lucht's orchestra furnished the music.

M. C. Lawlessinger was elected secretary at the Monday night to fill the place vacated by Clarence Henrichs, who resigned. At the regular meeting which was held at the club room last evening, the members plan to meet every Thursday during the winter. More than 25 members were present last evening.

Daughter of Late Marshall Field Is to Become Next U. S. Peeress

Lady Beatty.

LONDON—Lady Beatty, wife of Admiral Sir David Beatty of the English navy, is, according to rumor, about to become the next American peeress. Because of his distinguished service to King and country during the war Admiral Beatty is soon to be given an earldom.

Those who have watched Lady Beatty's devotion to war relief during all the long struggle feel that she, no less than her husband, has earned any honors that may come to her. Lady Beatty, always of a serious nature, and eager to help wherever help was needed, won all hearts by starting the first fund two years ago for the relief of the English widows and children of victims of the war. She gave a great part of her private fortune to this end and served faithfully on various war relief committees in England during the war.

Lady Beatty was formerly Mrs. Ethel Field Tree and she is the only daughter of the late Marshall Field, Chicago's "merchant prince." She has lived abroad since her teens and is one of the very few American women on intimate terms with the queen of England. There are two sons, David and Peter.

LA PRAIRIE PLANS "WAR" HOMECOMING

(By Special Correspondent.)

La Prairie, Sept. 26.—A homecoming and reception for La Prairie sailors, soldiers and marines will be held Wednesday evening, October 1, at the Grange hall.

Plans for the evening's program are nearing completion. A banquet will be served to the service men at 7 o'clock. After the banquet a program to which the whole community is invited, will be given. Special music, a speaker and community singing are on the program as tentative arrangements.

WINNERS IN MILK CONTEST ANNOUNCED

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Sept. 26.—Officials of the Wisconsin cow testing associations have just announced the live winners in the state-wide milk and butterfat contest which has been in progress for the last year.

Highest honors were awarded "Aggie," a grade Holstein, owned by Huelnik and Luback of Sheboygan county. In the year she produced 17,315 pounds of milk and 687 pounds of butterfat.

"Sweet Heart," a grade Guernsey, owned by Joseph Mayer of Calumet county, won second place with a record of 11,222 pounds of milk and 474 pounds of butterfat.

Third place was filled by "Trinket's Ebony," a Jersey, owned by Kurt Wiegans of Manitowish county, whose record for the year was 10,523 pounds of milk and 610.4 pounds of butterfat.

A grade Holstein, "Spotty," owned by Will Lohuis of Sheboygan county, took fourth place in the list of high cows with 15,433 pounds of milk and 507 pounds of butterfat.

And, "Primrose of Schleswig 2nd," a pure bred owned by L. P. Thielke and Son, of Manitowish county, was fifth in the line-up with 8,835 pounds of milk and 583 pounds of butterfat.

Each of these cows has been admitted to the state's honor roll for producing a pound of butterfat per day a year.

Badger Potato Fame Spreads to Southland

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Baton Rouge, La., Sept. 26.—Louisiana farmers are turning constantly increasing numbers to Wisconsin as a source of seed potatoes.

G. L. Tiebout, who has charge of the potato work carried on by the Louisiana experiment station, is in Wisconsin at the present time and reports conditions in the state's certified fields as highly satisfactory.

These fields, distributed in 20 different counties, cover from 15,000 to 20,000 acres and will place upon the market a considerable quantity of select seed.

Through the co-operation of the officials of the University of Wisconsin and the University of Louisiana, Wisconsin seed has been grown on the experiment station farm here to afford opportunity for comparing it under field conditions with the local seed and that supplied by Minnesota and Nebraska growers.

U. W. Graduate Named Agricultural Advisor

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Longmont, Colo., Sept. 26.—P. H. McMaster, who was graduated from the University of Wisconsin in 1916, has been appointed agricultural advisor for a large sugar company with headquarters here. This is one of the leading sugar beet growing sections of the Rocky mountain states.

News Notes From Movieland

BY DAISY DEAN

Will Rogers in a scene from his next picture "Almost a Husband."

Ever since Goldwyn offered Will Rogers in "Laughing Bill Hyde" the public has been eagerly waiting for another Rogers picture. They have had a long wait, but they will soon be rewarded with the second Will Rogers picture which is now being produced under the direction of Clarence C. Badger. The name of the new picture is "Almost a Husband" and of course it is full of Rogers' cowboy comedy.

A number of well known screen personalities have been engaged, chief of whom is Irene Rich, who makes her first appearance with Goldwyn as leading woman in "Almost a Husband." Others of importance are Rowland Lee, Wade Boteler, Marguerite Livingston, Milton Brown, Victor Poter, Courtwright, Sydney De Grey and Lillian Langdon, with Lydia Yeamans Titus in an especially telling role.

Here are some of Will's latest quips which the "Follies" audiences are missing:

WISCONSIN SAILORS 'SHOVE' OFF FOR WEST

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Prohibition? "No brother, a Prohibitionist has no regular business of his own; if he did he would have no time to be one."

"Streets that used to be lighted at night and crowded are now used for robbing purposes only."

"If you drop into a cafe now, they have to hunt up the night watchman to cook something for you."

"Some men will have to practice two years to learn how to order a soft drink without blushing."

"There will be folks among the coming generation that can name 12 different phosphates that couldn't name two presidents."

SIDNEY CHAPLIN TO RETURN
Sidney Chaplin will return to the American picture world. During the nine weeks he has been working in England, France and Switzerland, Sidney has recognized the value of his native land. He says making pictures without coal, clothing, or "prop," is worse than making bricks without straw. Yes, he's related to Charlie—his brother.

COHAN'S DAUGHTER IN FILMS
Georgette Cohan, attractive daughter of George Cohan, is to make her film debut soon. Her first picture will be with Elsie Ferguson.

FERBER STORY ON SCREEN
One of Edna Ferber's full-of-pep stories has been made into snappy picture called "The Gay Old Dog." Mrs. Sidney Drew will star in it.

10 PER CENT OF MUTUELS
Paris—The followers of the racing game are finding it a little harder than ever to beat the game. In France this season the pari-mutuels are playing 2 per cent less than they did in pre-war days. Instead of taking only 3 per cent from the total wagers the officials are deducting 10 per cent on all tracks where the mutual system is used.

Paris—The followers of the racing game are finding it a little harder than ever to beat the game. In France this season the pari-mutuels are playing 2 per cent less than they did in pre-war days. Instead of taking only 3 per cent from the total wagers the officials are deducting 10 per cent on all tracks where the mutual system is used.

Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author.

Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Writers' names are never printed. Only inquiries of general interest are answered in this column, but all letters will be answered by mail if written on a separate sheet of paper, addressed and enclosed. Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual cases cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Brady, in care of this paper.

SUGGESTIONS TO INVENTORS

It is remarkable how many discoverers of remarkable remedies write to me about their discoveries. A gentleman wrote the other day that he had invented a remedy for lumbago, which he thought of trying the same treatment, and he even told me that he was shipping me a sample, although I warned him I'd use it to get under the autograph. The sample never arrived. Another gentleman wrote me that he had practically patented a chair which turned it into an automatic chair, thus insuring all the manifold advantages of some of the most famous chairs in the world, without giving the osteopaths a look in. Naturally this appealed to me, for it is certainly fine to crowd out competition, but the sample chair never arrived and for all I care the osteopaths may go on adjusting my spinal diseases purporting to be dependent upon the somersault habit, though I take such claims of damages as can arise.

The prize winning invention is one described in a letter from a man who wrote me a few weeks since. He assured me that he had worked out a method whereby it would be quite feasible to restore life to the dead. He provided one of the vital organs were seriously damaged. He gave me explicit directions and urged me to try out the method in a series of cases. I wrote to him later. As he sent me a dead and I never attend dead folks, I am still waiting for someone with a scientific bent to die on me, with all his vital organs in good condition, so that I may try this remarkable invention.

I do not trust that the inventors will keep up their work. I have a habit I leave to the complete letter writer. But I do hope the inventors will not despair. I have been disappointed with 600 different remedies before he discovered his remedy for syphilis. Columbus persevered even amid overwhelming discouragements. The inventor of this newspaper ran all sorts of copy in this space before I landed here. A suggestion is sometimes a valuable thing to an inventor. I myself receive lots of suggestions from readers whose offerings, indeed, make this department practically automatic and my job a delightful one. Many I do not use. W. W. would say, make a suggestion to discoverers, namely, that they should devote a reasonable share of their time and study to the effort to fabricate out of exercise a product which can be administered in a spoon.

Exercise is the need of all remedies, far superior to the majority of remedies purporting to be of much value. Whoever succeeds in converting the new modes of this sort of service will attain undying fame and a fortune such as no son of patent medicine aristocracy has ever dreamed of.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
Be Stingy Remedy.
Let me suggest, writes S. B., that if paroxysm is immediately applied to the wound of a bee sting it will give instant relief. This remedy was accidentally discovered when I was a boy working at a honey house. The bees were attracted by the sweets and stings were frequent.

Bacterin for Influenza.
Please give your opinion on vaccination or inoculation for influenza. (H. C.)
ANSWER.—The administration of a so-called vaccine, really of bacterin, that is, a suspension of measured numbers of killed bacteria by hypodermic injection, appears to have some preventive value and in many cases it seems to exert marked remedial influence on an attack of influenza-pneumonia.

High Blood Pressure.
I would be indebted to you if you will describe in your interesting and instructive department the usual symptoms of high blood pressure. I have never had any serious symptoms, but my face is always flushed and warm. (J. L.)
ANSWER.—High blood pressure is itself a sign of various diseases and is indicative of characteristic symptoms. It would be unwise to assume that the flushing of the face indicates high blood pressure, as such a complaint is often made by persons with low blood pressure.

She Married an Average Man
By ZOE BECKLEY.
I have been happily playing house, saving, cooking, entertaining and rearing my little girl. I have been enjoying the blissful novelty of being "just a wife." It's rather wonderful for a girl who has always been a slave to business and the luxury of leisure for a little. To go for walks. To potter over the marketing. All the things a business girl cannot do, and long to do.

Today I accepted an invitation to Mrs. Wyeth's luncheon. The guest of honor was a woman from New York, who with a son of college boy age, is visiting the Wyeths.

I have never met a woman of her type before. I wonder if she is true type, whether the "New York Idea" is represented fittingly in her. Her son, a stripling of nineteen, was conspicuously attentive. I was puzzled. He thought I was a very young unmarried girl, invited for his benefit. So I spoke of "my husband." He was not abashed. On the contrary, when we sat about the dining room after lunch, he became almost embarrassing.

"You mustn't mind him," his mother laughed when I told her she was out of the room, and the ladies were in love with a married woman older than himself. It really seems as necessary an experience as breaking their collarbones in football, you know.

"The delicacy of it all put me quite at a loss," made some remark about New York's code of ethics, being more advanced than Centerville's.

"Oh, dear me, yes," agreed the boy's mother, "with sophisticated civility. I hardly know a married woman of any attractiveness who hasn't a lot of two on her string."

I should like to be able to record in my journal that I took an early leave of Mrs. Wyeth's party and hurried home, feeling much disgusted. But I didn't.

Heart and Home Problems
By ELIZABETH THOMPSON
LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE.
Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have just graduated from high school and I wish to enter a college and take a chemist's course, but my parents object. I would have to work my way through school and I would like to have you mention some things I could do on the side of school hours to help me along.

There is a boy that I have been going with and my parents do not like him because he is not from our town and they think I do not know enough about him to go with him. While here he associates with the best class of people. Is it all right for me to go with him even if they do object?

PHAT.
At the college you expect to attend they may have suggestions to offer for working your way through school. They will try to help young people to get educations, and can give you helpful suggestions about working your way through.

You might get work as a collector during your spare hours, or might wait on table at a restaurant or clerk in a store. The work which I can suggest is not so much attractive, of course, but anything would be worth while for the end you would gain.

Ask your parents to let you entertain the young man at your home so that they will have a chance to know him better. If they still object, you may be sure that they have some reason to and that their judgment of his character is in some way justified.

MOLE AND BROWN DUVETYN COMBINE IN SMART FROCK

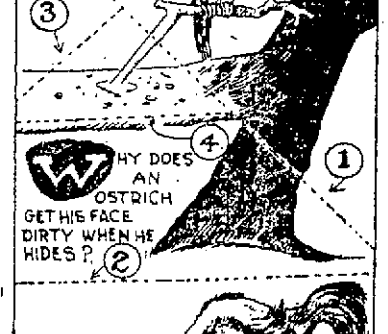

The demand for the practical and very smart one-piece dress of serge or tricotee has in no way abated. Indeed the new modes of this sort of frock are so charming as well as so serviceable that no wardrobe is complete without at least one. Serge seems to have had its day, at least for the early fall and spring, for at this time the newer duvetyns and tricotees are rising up and down the land.

It is hardly possible to describe the beauty of these one-piece frocks. When one has said they are of either of the two materials mentioned and that they are of the chemise type, which has been told, but to appreciate fully the beauty and charm of such a dress one must see it. The trimmed hips prevail in the smartest of the new models.

Here is a distinguished fall costume of colored duvetyne with brown bands on the skirt and cuffs. The top line belt is also brown. A duvetyne hat to match, trimmed with a band and star ornament of brown satin is a youthful shape which is almost universally becoming. The little fur choker is especially smart with the one-piece frock this fall.

MOVING PICTURE FUNNIES

I rushed home, only to find Jim already there, with a man he had brought to dine with us. "I telephoned you twice today, dear," he said in that repressed tone of a person more than ordinarily put out. "Where on earth have you been?" This is Mr. Bolton. And from our New York office.

"The strangest feeling," passed through me. It lasted only an instant, but it was just as if I could see him inside my mind. "New York. You have begun to learn about New York; well you shall learn more."

I made my excuse somehow, though I was more than vexed and myself. I was ashamed. By dint of telephoning and some mighty quick thinking, I got together a dinner so good that it mollified him. Indeed, considering the circumstances, he was perfectly adorable.

I do not like this Mr. Bolton. And the strange thing is that I cannot say why.

I do not know whether it is that unaccounted sort of party today. Or my flurry over the dinner. Or this Bolton man's manner. Or my nerves. I do not certainly have a strange, guilty sort of feeling. I'm glad to go to bed and feel that the day is over.

SIDE TALKS

—By—
RUTH CAMERON

"WE ALL LIKE SHEEP"

How strong is that instinct in human nature which makes us want things not for their own intrinsic utility or beauty but just because other people have them?

Some friends of ours who have a nine-year-old daughter, moved from the city to the country last year. As the country school was some distance from her home and the daughter had to be gone all day, her mother put up a lunch and packed it in a very dainty little wicker basket which had been given her one Christmas.

She Preferred A Tard Fall
After the little girl had been going to school a few days, she came home one noon and said she didn't want to carry that wicker basket any more. "Why not, Mary?" "Because none of the other girls have them."

"What do they have?" "They all bring their lunch in five-pound lard pails and I want one, mother. I don't want to carry that old basket."

Could one have a more picturesque example of the herd instinct in human nature—the instinct which makes a perfectly good garment ugly to its owner the second season, which helps create best sellers and which helps create fads and skating rinks and goodness knows what else.

I should not have thought one an example of the herd instinct in human nature, but last night I came upon a dress which is quite as picturesque in its way, and in contrast with these, even more so.

Scotch. Bleach in the sunshine or with Javelle water.

Shoe Polish (black).—Use soap and warm water; then use shoe polish.
Shoe Polish (tan).—Use alcohol. Syrup—Use water.

Stove Polish.—Use cold water and soap; or kerosene, benzine or gasoline.
Vaseline.—Use kerosene or turpentine.

Water.—Steam or sponge the entire surface of water-spotted materials.
Wax.—Scrape off as much as possible. Use French chalk, blotting paper, or other absorbent cloth. Warm iron or use benzine or gasoline. If color remains, use alcohol or bleach.

GOOD RECIPES.
Cottage Pie.—Two cups chopped meat, two tablespoons fat, three tablespoons flour, one and one-half teaspoons salt, one teaspoon scraped onion or chopped parsley, one and one-half cups milk, stock or water, two cups bread crumbs.

Make a brown sauce of the fat, salt, pepper, flour, onion or parsley and milk or stock. Mix with the meat. Butter the crumbs, and place about one-half cup in the bottom of a buttered dish. Add the meat mixture and cover the top with the remainder of the bread crumbs. Bake in the oven until the mixture is heated and the bread crumbs are browned. (Potatoes cooked may be substituted for the bread crumbs.)

Glazed Sweet Potatoes.—Six medium sized potatoes, one-half cup sugar, one-fourth cup water, three tablespoons butter.

Wash and pare potatoes. Cook 10 minutes in boiling salted water; drain, cut in halves lengthwise, and put in a buttered pan.

"Should I keep him, or not, uncle?"

"Since you ask my advice, after having already concluded what to do, will state, in my humble opinion, you could not do better."

"Poor Bertie!" said the lady. "I must send him a telegram."

"A telegram?" said the chancellor. "I don't want him to feel bad any longer. I don't want any one to feel bad."

Alexander said nothing.

"Dinner," said Pelton, looking in at the moment.

"And Alexander not yet dressed in the honorable Bertie's beautiful evening togs," said the lady. "Never mind!" And then, as they went in, "Don't pretend!"

"What?" asked Alexander.

"That you don't know without watching me what knives and forks to eat with! Which reminds me: What will the servants do?"

"The servants?" said the lord high chancellor.

"Yes! You see, they appointed themselves my guardians, and the guardians of high English respectability. Very nice of them."

"Most commendable!" said the chancellor.

"But now, uncle, in relieve their apprehensions, you must explain."

"Gladly! Explaining is one of the greatest privileges of my high office."

"Since Alexander 'shoned' poor Miss Handley away, he'll be very sorry worse than ever."

"That won't do. Call them in after dinner, Pelton. The explanation, my dear, will be masterly."

he a patroness, and he, to serve as a patron.

"Too," said Alexander modestly. "You hear the prince?" said the chancellor.

"His ladyship's husband!" From Jane's lips.

"As I've made you extra work," said her ladyship, "you should have extra pay. In sure I should pay, having my morals properly guarded."

"But your ladyship," stammered Jane, "there was no real need."

"But there might have been! The fact that there was not a real need, and never may be, makes the need of the committee the more imperative. Am I not right?" To the chancellor.

"Absolutely!" rubbing his nose. "Is to guard against contingencies!"

"Ten pounds a piece for you from me!" said Alexander.

"And in a western of the Honorable Bertie's clothes!" whispered Pelton to Jane. And then aloud: "Begging your pardon, your highness, but you about MacDuffy? Does that include him?"

"As you have to drop an 'H' from 'highness,' Pelton, I would suggest that henceforth you address me as, 'Sir'."

"But—" Dismayed.

"You see, I dropped the 'prince,' myself, some time ago."

"For why?" said the horrified Pelton.

"Bally nuisance!"

"But his ladyship isn't a princess?" murmured the disappointed Jane.

"Don't look so downhearted," spoke up her ladyship. "You see, there are to be no more dukes or princes in this house. So the prince dropped the title."

"And most of my estates?"

"Gone, quite properly, too, for cabbage patches, and for one feudal lord, we are to have a thousand Mrs. Wiggles."

"A very common person," said Jane, with a toss of her head. "From America!"

"And Russia!" said Alexander. "The Russia of the future! We shall not only have Mrs. Wiggles, but Mrs. Wiggles, too!"

"Thank heaven, this is England!" said Pelton. "Where we still have our claws and our fangs!"

"How can I break it to him," murmured her ladyship. "The truth is, Pelton, I am going to dispose of my superfluous acres—the idle ones, you know."

"Your ladyship means to sell."

"No. Give—renounce—relinquish—I am not sure of the proper word. Turned to the lord high chancellor.

"Don't ask me," said that individual weakly.

"Pelton forgot himself. 'Great Britain and Ireland will be populated by little Wiggles.'"

"Zee! Voltairean idea!" chirped Jacques. "Zee ever man with zee ever cabbage patch!"

"Zee Mr. Wiggles—ho be zee Englishman of zee future—and zee Mrs. Wiggles—she represent zee lovely Mrs. John Bull!"

"Pelton brother, shall you be a wanting of us, at all? Hafter?"

It wasn't a chaplain her ladyship needed, it was a king. Only Alexander's eyes shone with a vast approval.

"Oh, yes. I expect to maintain an establishment. Our nation will become a public-charge, you know."

Pelton groaned. "It'll come of your ladyship comin' 'ome, like this!"

"Unconventionally."

"With one shoe 'on and the other shoe 'off, limpin' from 'nanywhere."

"A-fellowed by 'im!" said the confused Jane.

"A prince 'wat ain't a prince!" half-bitterly from Pelton. And you may all go. Thank you so much."

"Much!" said the lord high chancellor.

"Much!" said Alexander.

"Wishing your ladyship every 'appiness," murmured Pelton.

"Heart! Heart!" said Tommy.

"The others murmured in like vein.

"And now," said the lord high chancellor, simulating an endeavor to conceal a yawn, have I, likewise, your permission to retire, my dear?"

"But my dear uncle, we've hardly had time yet to get acquainted, all over again."

"Dryly. "For me, this occasion has seemed a rather full occasion. Besides, don't you thing I deserve a little rest after my oratorical efforts?"

"Go, then!" she said. And he went.

The lady and Alexander seated themselves in the corner of the great, dimly-lighted hall.

"Who is this MacDuffy, Pelton spoke of?" asked Alexander.

"Her ladyship explained how MacDuffy wouldn't have anything to do with guarding her morals."

"Ha! I must reward him!" said Alexander. "Handsomely!"

"I implore it."

"Think of talking together about domestic affairs like that Alexander seated with to a wondrous sense of domestic felicity.

"I think," said the lady, "you have a misconception of the situation."

"You should know," said Alexander. Words which fell from such

HOW SOOTHING
POSLAM FEELS ON FIERY SKIN

Nothing that you can apply to all-itching, itching, itchy skin, can be more welcome than Poslam. For its relief is immediate. Angry surfaces are soothed, cooled, and the quick indications of benefit, showing that Poslam is taking hold, have been many a time. Poslam is a directness in this getting right at the trouble, is a quick remedy for the rash, itching eczema, scalp-itch, or any disordered condition.

Sold everywhere. For free sample write to Emergency Laboratories, 243 E. 14th St., New York City.

Trace your skin to become clearer, fairer, healthier by the use of Poslam Soap, the tonic soap for the skin.

Cocoanut Oil Pine
For Washing Hair

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Multi-dose coconut oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing as this, can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub in the oil. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rises out, and removes every particle of dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Multi-dose coconut oil shampoo at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.

THIN, NERVOUS FOLKS SHOULD TAKE BITRO-
PHOSPHATE

Women Need It to Bring Pink Glow of Health to Pale Cheeks and Faded Lips. It's the Best Food for Nervous, Thin, Pale People.

Weak, thin people—men or women—are nearly always nervous wrecks; thus conclusively proving that thinness, weakness, debility and neurasthenia are almost invariably due to nerve starvation. Feed your nerves and all these symptoms due to nerve starvation will disappear.

Eminent specialists state that one of the best things for the nerves is an organic phosphate known among druggists as Bitro-Phosphate, a five-grain tablet of which should be taken with each meal. Being a genuine nerve builder, it not only builds up the habit-forming drug, Bitro-Phosphate can be safely taken by the weakest and most delicate sufferer, and the results following its use are often simply astonishing.

By strengthening the nerves, weak tired people regain energy and vigor; thinness and angularity give way to plumpness and curves; sleep returns to the sleepless; confidence and cheerfulness replace gloom and depression; dull eyes become bright, and pale, sunken cheeks regain the pink glow of health.

CAUTION—Bitro-Phosphate, the use of which is inexpensive, and wonderfully promotes the assimilation of food, so much so, that many people report marked gains of weight in a few weeks. Those taking it who do not desire to put on flesh, should use extra care in avoiding fat-producing foods.

softly-curving lips should be respected, nay, revered. Tessie, however, was not to be deterred from joining the committee because of confidence in any supernatural discretion on my part. Her ladyship, however, said, "I might have gone to the D. bow-wows, for all of him."

"D. bow-wows," said Alexander, puzzled.

"Same as throwing your cap over the windmill!" explained the lady. "If he didn't care," said Alexander, "with a frown, 'why should I reward him?'"

"Why? Besides, think of the demoralizing effect it would have on the others?"

"Others?"

"Demoralizing?—oh, of course! It would be apt to demoralize them, wouldn't it?" said Alexander, with a funny look.

"Frightfully! One has to be careful. They might all up and leave us."

"Us?" Alexander gazed at her. Blushful plural.

"I light your cigarette?" said the lady.

"No. Nothing extraneous!"

"Extraneous?" Lifting her brow.

"Only you, Tessie, do you know the lady's eyes were very bright."

"Are you glad you didn't turn me down from the door?" he laughed.

"Don't ask me what I'm glad about."

"Ah!" Triumphant. "What did I tell you? Love doesn't reason."

"It certainly does not," said the lady. "When one feels like ceasing to think, or to have logical sequences of thought—What does it portend?"

"Heart-storm!" said Alexander.

But it was a very gentle tempest that burst upon her.

Dinner Stories

Johnny paid his first visit to him the other day. All his life he had lived in the heart of a great city, and when he suddenly came in sight of a haystack he stopped and gazed earnestly at what appeared to him as a new brand of architecture.

"Say, Mr. Smith," he remarked to the farmer, pointing to the haystack, "why don't they have doors and windows in it?"

"Doors and windows?" smiled the farmer. "That ain't a house, Johnny, that's hay."

"Don't try to josh me, Mr. Smith!" was the scornful rejoinder. "Don't you suppose I know that hay don't grow in jumps like that?"

The eye of a small city dweller was attracted by the sparkle of dew at early morning in a park one of the warm summer days this summer. "Mamma," he exclaimed, "it's hot-ter'n I thought it was."

"What do you mean, darling?"

"Look, the grass and the flowers are all covered with perspiration."

It was Robert's first visit to the zoo.

"What do you think of the animals?" inquired Uncle Ben.

After a critical inspection of the exhibit the boy replied:

"I think the kangaroo and the elephant should change tails."

"I have been advised to take up some course of reading now, for instance, what certain poet would you advise me to pursue?" asked the editor's caller.

"There one comes in here about every other day with a new war poem. I would appreciate it if you would pursue him. I'm too busy."

School-Teacher Needed Brains

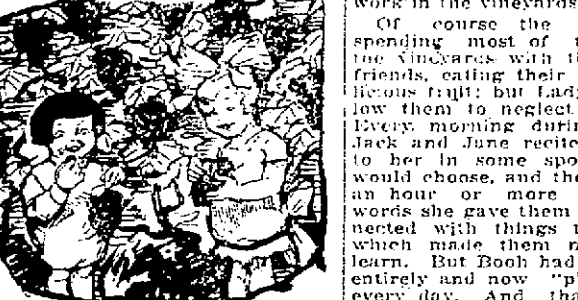

"I never have had such a 'Godsend' come to me as when I took the first dose of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy. I was afraid I would have to give up my school because of severe stomach, liver and bowel trouble which caused such pressure of gas that I could not use my brain at times, and my heart would palpitate awfully. Since taking a treatment of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy a year ago, all this has disappeared. It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments including appendicitis. One dose will continue or money refunded."

THE WISHING PLANE

After Como had shown Jane and Jack everything of interest on his father's farm he took them to a neighbor's place. There the children were surprised to find, instead of more and more grapevines, fields of wheat.

"The hats your mother and Lady-dear wear next year must have some of the straw from that wheat in it," said Como as he stood at the edge of one of the fields. Then he told the children how, in the northern part of Italy, many acres of wheat are grown just to obtain the straw. This is considered the finest straw in the world and if you'll ask your mother or sisters if they ever heard of Milan, Leghorn or Tuscany straw they'll tell you, I'm sure.

The straw is cut when it is just about half ripe and is left on the ground until it is dry. Then it is cut into certain lengths and the different sizes of straws are separated and put in piles. These different sizes of straw are used to make many kinds of hats. The straw is braided before it is made into hats.

When the hat makers want to use the straw they soak it in water until it becomes very soft and then use it to make hats. They then braid three, or four, or five straws at once into a long braid.

Doctor Issues Warning And Tells How to Stop Tobacco Habit

New York: Dr. Connor, formerly of Johns Hopkins Hospital, says: I am often asked if I know anything to stop the tobacco habit and I always recommend Nicotol, which I have prescribed with great success. Nicotol contains no habit-forming drugs, is absolutely harmless and produces astonishing results in a very short time. The use of tobacco saps the vitality, vim, vigor and ambition of the slave who is enslaved by its seductive effects. It undermines the health and leaves his system a prey to general debility, throat and lung troubles, nervousness, insomnia, heart disease, kidney trouble, headache, tongue and lip cancer and even blindness. Physicians the world over often trace the start of the above diseases and many others to nicotine poisoning.

Note: When asked about Nicotol tablets, one of our leading druggists said: "It is truly a wonderful remedy for the tobacco habit—away ahead of anything we have ever sold. We are authorized by the manufacturer to refund the money to every dissatisfied customer, and we would not permit the use of our name under the remedy possessed unusual merit." Nicotol is sold in this city under a money-back guarantee, by all up-to-date druggists, including People's Drug Co., Reliable Drug Co.

A MEMOIR.
I remember, I remember
When courtin' Sal I went;
The "crazy" where so many
Delightful hours were spent;
The good old horseshair sofa,
The crayon portraits, too,
Which stared so impudently
As crayon portraits do;
The what-not in the corner
Filled up with ancient junk,
The stuffed owl on the mantel
Who listened to the punk
I peddled just like you did
When courtin' our girl,
And life was simply heaven
When I was woin' Sal.

I remember, I remember
How I marched to the aisle,
The knot tied by the pastor
Has held for quite a while.
The horseshair sofa's missing,
The crayon portraits, too,
We're living in apartments
With modern stuff clear through,
The stuffed owl is not with us
Perched up above the fence;
We have no corner what-not,
For we are up-to-date.
I remember, I remember
I married Sal, you bet;
The landlord and collectors
Will not let me forget.

WITH THE WOMEN OF TODAY

Mrs. Claudia Quigley Murphy, who is an active worker in the woman's national economic committee, is to speak at the home economic conference to be held in Cleveland the latter part of September. Mrs. Murphy is an economic expert and advisory counsel and she believes that it lies in the hands of women to make the world safe for individualism.

"There are 25,000,000 women in this country who are going to have something to say in the future about some of our economic problems," points out Mrs. Murphy. "You may rest assured that the hand that rocks the cradle is not going to 'rock the boat' when it comes to any concerted action on such prominent questions as the soaring of prices of food, or any pernicious legislation which is aimed against the public."

The women of this country who are the logical purchasing agents, should learn something of the workings of the market and other such things which have heretofore been a closed book to them. They should learn the facts underlying economic evils. The women's national economic committee, which distributes all sorts of information to women on such matters, has met with a marked response from our women, who are not only demanding definite information but who are also giving a most intelligent consideration to these questions and their underlying causes."

Mrs. Murphy, who is said to have a personal acquaintance with more of the leading women of this country than any other person, has her headquarters at 22 East 17th street, New York city.

LARGES MILITARY
RANK FOR NURSES

Disagreeing with Surgeon General
Ireland's view that existing regulations plus a nurse's natural characmen of the medical corps, Maj. Gen.

E. P. Glenn, commander of the 83d division in Europe, and Miss Sara E.

mittee that army nurses must be graded and accorded relative military rank in order to secure the efficiency their work demands.

Since instant compliance with a nurse's directions frequently means life or death to her patients, Miss Parsons said, the disadvantage under which the nurses corps worked was not only real but vital.

HERE AND THERE

Women in France have been granted the right to vote in all elections for members of communal and department assemblies.

As superintendent of the State
Home for Girls at Trenton, N. J.,
Miss Mary B. Harris will receive a salary of $2,500 a year.

Women teachers employed in the elementary schools in Japan are the poorest paid of any other line of endeavor in that country.

In Germany in certain industries the proportion of work done by women has risen slightly from under 18 percent in 1914 to practically 40 percent at the present time.

Lieutenant - Colonel, 38

Years in Service,
Seeks a Job

[By International News.]

New York.—The re-employment bureau for soldiers, sailors and marines here is hunting for a job that would suit a lieutenant-colonel with 38 years of army service behind him.

The lieutenant-colonel, whose name is withheld from publication, as are those of all applicants, personally requested the service to help him. He accepted a position in the army immediately after graduating from Columbia university with the degree of medical doctor.

In those days it was not necessary for a physician to have a license to practice medicine and now that the officer wishes to return to civil life, he will not be able to follow his profession because of the new law.

Bemaded Hero Spends Week-end in Elkhorn

[By Gazette Correspondent.]
Elkhorn, Sept. 25.—Private Burger
Loman, who is acknowledged to be one of the most bemaded heroes of the war, spent the past week-end in Elkhorn. At the present time Private Loman wears the congressional medal of honor, and the Croix de Guerre with palm. He has also been cited for the British distinguished service medal, the Victoria cross, and the Belgian war cross. He has a citation from Gen. John J. Pershing for heroic and gallant work near Juvigny. In talking with Private Loman he said, "I don't know why they gave them all to me as I simply was doing what any fellow would have done had he been given the same opportunity that I had." Private Clayton Slack accompanied Private Loman to Elkhorn. He has the distinction of being the only Wisconsin boy to wear the congressional medal of honor.

ALBANY GETS CRACK CHICAGO HEAVY FOR GAME HERE SUNDAY

Dave Black, one of the best known semi-pro pitchers in Chicago, and a member of the pitching staff of the Chicago Nationals, will pitch for Albany in the Albany-Lawrence game at the fair grounds here Sunday, according to an announcement made today by Roy Cronko, manager of the Albany club. It will be remembered that Black pitched for the Chicago club in the old Federal league.

Opposing Black, Manager Murphy will have his one best bet—Eddie Brodie. Silverthorn or Brown will probably be secured to catch for the home club.

Albany plans to be at the game 300 strong with a uniformed brass band "everything." As it will be the first home game in six weeks for the Albany club, a monster local crowd is expected.

FAVORITES AGAIN WIN AT COLUMBUS

Columbus, O., Sept. 26.—First choices were enjoying a run at the Columbus fair yesterday through several of the races on the four event program saw some split heats before eventually crushing.

Roy Gratton in the 2:03 pace had no trouble in disposing of his field. He had to step no faster than 2:04 1/2.

In the 2:05 trot, Prince Loreo, who had won the first heat, finally triumphing over other heat winners, Wilkes Brewer and Charley Rex, in a fourth mile.

The Western Horseman fraternity for 3-year-old pacers, purse $2,498.10, was won by Goldie King, a great boy who made a break when Goldie made a break. This unexpected victory in the heat paid $84.80 in the final on a $2 ticket.

Louis Gratton had the 2:03 pacers at her mercy and took a new record of 2:03 1/4 in the first heat.

BELOIT NAG WINS RACE AT OSHKOSH

Oshkosh, Sept. 26.—Over 25,000 people were at the Winnebago county fair yesterday afternoon for Oshkosh day and many thousands more attended the fair in the evening.

There were three good horse races on the half mile track, an extra having been added. In the 2:22 pace Palm Beach of Beloit made it three straight heats. Sterneman's Hal Chaffin of Milwaukee was fourth.

In the 2:15 pace it took five heats to settle the affair. In a 3 year old special pace, Star Doctor of Hathorn, Pa., won in three heats. Good time was made, particularly by the 3 year olds.

New York betting men are making the Chicago White Sox favorites over the Cincinnati Reds to win the world's series. The odds quoted so far are 8 to 5 in favor of the Sox. Backers of the White Sox naturally are influenced somewhat by the fact that the American league has triumphed annually since 1909, excepting the Braves' victory five years ago; also because they believe Manager Gleason has a more powerful leading team, a greater number of experienced veterans and two extraordinary pitchers. If the odds lengthen before the series starts, the Sox may be well supported along Broadway and elsewhere.

BRINGING UP FATHER

COMISKEY PARK IS LARGEST BASEBALL FIELD IN COUNTRY

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Chicago, Sept. 25.—Comiskey Park in Chicago occupies a portion of the world's series which will be played between the Chicago Americans and the Cincinnati Nationals, pennant winners of their respective leagues.

The park, which was built in 1910, is the largest in the country. At the time it was built in 1910 it was declared to be a baseball park and since that time several other baseball clubs have erected stands along the lines of Comiskey's creation.

The tract of land upon which the steel and concrete structures are built contains acres and was purchased by Comiskey when he decided to move his team from the thirty-ninth street location, where the park was made of wood.

This big grand stand was started Feb. 25, 1910, and finished July 1 of the same year. The club played its 1910 games on the old grounds and moved to the new park on the day it was completed. Twelve hundred tons of steel were used in the grand stand. The park is located at West 35th street and Shields avenue, and is reached from all parts of the city by elevated and surface lines and numerous hotels.

The playing field is laid out with the home plate in the southwest corner of the field, thus allowing the batter to face northeast and making right field the "sun garden." The distance behind the plate to the first row of boxes in the grand stand is 82 feet, eight feet less than the major league regulations call for.

Capacity is 34,500.
The distance down the right and left field foul lines from the home plate to the fence is 335 feet, twelve feet more than regulations. From home plate to the center field fence is 450 feet. These dimensions make the playing field the only one in the country conforming so closely to standards. The park has a seating capacity of 34,500.

The original seating capacity of the park was 20,000, yet at one time, Frank Chance day—President Comiskey made a settlement for $6,308 paid admissions to the New York Yankees.

The grand stand is a double deck structure, with box seats facing the front on both decks. There are 11,000 of these box seats. The grand stand seats behind the boxes are on inclines. There are about 5,000 of these and they are all reserved.

The lower grand stand seats are reached by two inclined run-ways, which go up at either end of the stand, and when about half way up branch out, making it possible to reach the top rows at four different points and that without climbing steps.

The pavilions are on either side of the grand stand and have a seating capacity of about 4,500 each. They also are covered. These seats usually cost the fans 50 cents each, but for the big series the price will be more. These are not reserved, and will be placed on sale the day of the games.

Bleachers Hold 8,000.
The bleachers are in right and left field. The right field bleachers run north and south, while the left field bleachers extend from the east to the west. They do not meet in center field. The intervening space is utilized for a big electric score board which is worked from the press stand on the upper deck of the grand stand. The bleachers have a combined seating capacity of about 8,000.

The pavilions and bleachers are protected by a concrete wall four feet high, topped by a wire fence six feet high.

The pitchers' mound is elevated 7 1/2 inches. At night and when the weather is threatening the diamond is covered by a tarpaulin which is 100 feet square. It is rolled on a large steel cylinder and is kept in a structure built of concrete in front of the left field pavilion.

The White Sox playing field is the only regulation ball grounds in the country. The space behind the home plate originally was 94 feet, but even with twelve feet taken off to permit the erection of permanent boxes this year, the space behind the plate is still greater than that of any other ball park.

Two Hundred Tishers Hired.
Don't worry about finding that reserved seat at a world's series game played at Comiskey park, because Peter O'Neill has been busy for more than a month engaging a staff of 200 tishers to take care of the big rush on the opening day.

O'Neill has been head usher at the park for 12 years or more and blind-folDED he could find his way to any specified seat in the pavilions. He is known to the thousands of grand stand patrons, and his pleasing and courteous manner is an asset to the park.

He said today, while outlining his plans for handling the big crowd that every man on his staff would know that particular section assigned to him just as well as the school boy knows his A, B, C's, and he would be overjoyed to have a tishers just as soon as the turnstiles begin to click. It will mean a steady procession from the gates to the individual seats, all of which have been numbered and no lost motion looking for reservations will be necessary with this corps of workers.

STARS END SEASON AT FOOTVILLE, SUNDAY

The All Stars will play their final game of the season at Footville Sunday when they will meet the Cubs, the same line that limmed them a few weeks ago. Pete Lanthorne will oppose Beck on the mound making it a battle between two southpaws. The game was originally set for last Sunday but dampness prevented.

The stars, with their regular line-up, will leave for Footville at noon. Anyone wishing to accompany the team may notify any member of it before Saturday.

The following is the standing of the American association for 1919. The year that the Reds won their last pennant. They wound up the season with 55 games won and 25 lost, for a percentage of .683, just 741 points ahead of their nearest rival, the Philadelphia Athletics.

FAIRIES WIN 'WAY DOWN IN ARKANSAS

Stuttgart, Ark., Sept. 26.—Fairbanks Morse of Beloit won from Stuttgart here yesterday 7 to 1. Benny Carr, Boston Brave recruit, pitched for the locals and Tony Brotemmel of the Cardinals caught. Score: Fairies 7 0 0 1 3 0 0—7 13 1. Stuttgart 0 0 0 0 0 1 0—1 8 3. Batteries—Friedergerst and Murphy; Carr and Brotemmel.

Early Patchen Takes First in 2:08 Pace

La Crosse, Sept. 26.—Early Patchen of Galena, Illinois, driven by J. M. Gundry, staged a thrilling finish for a first in the third heat of the 2:08 pace here yesterday afternoon, at the Intermountain fair, after Nat Victor, driven by J. W. Hudzicki of Minneapolis, an added starter, had won the first two slake heats. Gundry drove his horse, under the wire first in the next two heats and took first money, with Nat Victor second. Starve Rock, driven by N. Houslett of Oxford, Wis., took three heats from Bert K. handled by P. Bundy of Minneapolis, and won the 2:11 pace.

HIGH SCHOOL WILL MEET DELAVAN OCT. 11 IN FIRST GAME

High school pigskin warriors have two more weeks of practice ahead of them before their first game, which has been definitely fixed to be played with Delavan high school here, October 11. Whether the team will be ready for action then is up to Coach Lewis. From the present ragged condition of the aggregation it is evident he has a big job cut out for him.

Four games have already been arranged and three or four more are being sought. The schedule as it stands today calls for two home games and two out-of-town.

October 11—Delavan, here.
October 18—Open.
October 25—Open.
November 1—Jefferson, there.
November 8—Open.
November 15—Beloit, here.
November 22—Walworth, there.

The drive for the sale of season tickets, good for all home games, will begin soon. Every high school student will be appealed to to purchase one and it is also planned to urge merchants to buy them. The price will probably be $1.25, including war tax.

Every man will be given a chance to demonstrate his ability in the Delavan game, Coach Lewis announces. No first team will be picked until after that contest is over.

The lake city has a heavy eleven this year, but the blues hope to overcome this disadvantage with speed and duplicate the local high school's victory over Delavan in basketball.

The biggest game of the season will be the Beloit contest here November 15. Gateway City roots are already talking about chartering a couple of special interurbans to attend the game.

Capt. Leo ("Mike") Powers took charge of regular practice last night at the Fourth ward park in the absence of Coach Lewis, who failed to report on account of a faculty meeting. A squad of 25 candidates were given the best work-out of the season. The first eleven went through a long signal practice and wound up with a half-hour of hot scrimmage with the scrubs, who were reinforced by such old stars as McCaffrey, Hunt, "Skipper" Firo, and Inman.

The effects of Capt. Powers' schooling of the green ones in tackling and blocking were evident in scrimmage. The scrubs were unable to hold the first eleven from making substantial gains, although they offered their best to stop them.

Hall was used at quarter on the chase one and it is also planned to first squad last night, with Raubacher at fullback and Gridley and Tanager at halves. Sullivan and Black and Scobie at tackles, Claxton and Kinney at guards, and Garvin at center.

But with both races definitely settled the anticipated rush of money has not materialized, and those who are quoting odds are now of the opinion that the chances of the Reds were holding back, waiting to see whether or not the Cleveland Indians might not nose out the Sox in the final drive to the wire.

New York, Sept. 26.—Apparently there are few inclined to unleash their bankrolls and concede the Cincinnati Reds even an outside chance to defeat the Chicago White Sox in the coming world's series.

In those places where bets on the series are being recorded a surprising dearth of Cincinnati money is reported. Even at the liberal odds of 10 to 7 against the Reds, few Cincinnati dollars have drifted into the waiting hands of the stakeholders.

Thus far the biggest wager that has been made is $1,000 against $700 that the White Sox win. Until Chicago clinched the American league pennant by defeating the St. Louis Browns on Wednesday, it was generally supposed that those who liked the chances of the Reds were holding back, waiting to see whether or not the Cleveland Indians might not nose out the Sox in the final drive to the wire.

WHITE SOX ARE 10-7 FAVORITES IN EAST

New York, Sept. 26.—Apparently there are few inclined to unleash their bankrolls and concede the Cincinnati Reds even an outside chance to defeat the Chicago White Sox in the coming world's series.

In those places where bets on the series are being recorded a surprising dearth of Cincinnati money is reported. Even at the liberal odds of 10 to 7 against the Reds, few Cincinnati dollars have drifted into the waiting hands of the stakeholders.

Thus far the biggest wager that has been made is $1,000 against $700 that the White Sox win. Until Chicago clinched the American league pennant by defeating the St. Louis Browns on Wednesday, it was generally supposed that those who liked the chances of the Reds were holding back, waiting to see whether or not the Cleveland Indians might not nose out the Sox in the final drive to the wire.

Young U. S. Officer Who Served On Foch's Staff Returns With Honors

The Americans at Chateau Thierry Proved they Could Fight Like the French.

Lieut. Louis Cohn, at right, walking with General Mangin.

"France fears Germany today. There will be nothing to prevent Germany from repeating her drive into France unless American and Great Britain agree to help her in case of invasion by Germany."

"Germany and Japan are forming an alliance right now as surely as can be. Japan has German officers training its army right now. The allies have known this for months."

"Germany will bring peace in Russia and then exploit that country."

"The next time Russia allies itself with any country that country will be with Germany, of course."

"Germany realizes now it made the blunder President Bullitt of the Hamburg-American line pointed out at the beginning of the war. It could have ruled the world commercially in a few years. Consequently Germany is planning a new war right now—a commercial war—by which it hopes to wipe out the recent defeat."

"The German people do not recognize the way the war ended as a defeat. We were smart enough to sign when things were as they were, without a single factory destroyed, a single mine injured or a single industry wiped out," they say.

"The newly formed states in Europe, such as the Czech-Slovakian group, cannot last unless some larger country gives them financial aid. The only country in a position to aid them is the United States. The U. S. would have to aid all of them, if any."

"The peace treaty has not ironed out the ill feeling among the allied European nations. The diplomacy used at Paris has only made more sore spots. Every nation has a right to ask, 'What has England done for the betterment of Europe that it should be given Thrace?'"

"Italy is already leaning toward Germany because of this soreness."

Cohn is 30. He was working in New York in 1916 when he decided to go to France and enlist with the French. He enlisted as a private.

In January, 1918, he was made a cadet officer and a few months later received his commission as second lieutenant. For his services at the Order of the Guerre with six citations, the Belgian Croix de Guerre, the Cross of St. Stanislaus of Russia and the Medal of the Chevalier of the Order of the Boy of Tunis. He also wears a card for regimental citations.

In addition to these military honors he wears a medal given him by the French government for the interior for assistance rendered the blind soldiers. Cohn states that he established the first electric printing press for the blind soldiers.

When Marshall Foch made his tour of the occupied sections of Germany early in the year Cohn was made a member of his staff. At the conclusion of the trip Cohn was assigned to General Mangin's Tenth division, which soon will be the only division left in the occupied regions.

One of the interesting sidelights of the war which Cohn brings home is the fact that at the time the armistice was signed, Nov. 11, Marshall Foch had plans completed for the greatest general attack of the war. It was expected to drive the Germans back into their own land.

General Pershing was to have the important part in the victory would be essentially a German triumph for him and the American forces.

Cohn expects to be out of the service soon.

LAKE GENEVA MAN PUT ON CLAIM BOARD

(By Special Correspondent.)

Lake Geneva, Sept. 25.—Francis T. A. Junkin, popular Lake Geneva summer resident, has accepted an appointment as a member of the board of contract adjustment, the court of last resort, in settling war contract claims against the government. The position carries with it the rank of lieutenant colonel in the regular army.

The board is made up solely of lawyers of wide experience. Colonel Junkin's experience as a corporation and railroad lawyer and afterward as attorney general of the Atkinson, Topeka and Santa Fe railway, where he had supervision of all contracts of the corporation, were the determining factors in his selection for the office.

Important points for decision are anticipated by the central board in regard to the many contracts which were abrogated by the government immediately after the armistice was signed. Although the board sits as a court, it is expected to operate in a more informal manner, and to arrive at quick justice in all the cases presented before it.

The ROMANCE OF THE BUSINESS TRUE STORIES OF SUCCESSFUL WOMEN BY EDITH MORIARTY

When Katherine Lee was a senior in college she did what most of her classmates and most of the seniors in other colleges did. She applied for a position as teacher in several country high schools. Like most of the rest of the girls she accepted a school in a small town where she would have to teach three subjects six days a week for the sum of $50 a month. This was small return for the amount of work she did, to say nothing of the time and money spent in educating herself for the work. It never occurred to her to try anything else until she had given up three years of her life to training the young minds of the country.

At the end of three years she was getting $55 a month and the prospects of ever getting any more were not very bright. She would have to become a principal and most of the principals were men. Katherine was becoming a little dissatisfied, although she scarcely knew it herself. It was not until one vacation when she was back in her home in a large city that she realized that she no longer wanted to teach. Her best friend was writing advertising for one of the large department stores. She was earning twice as much as Katherine and was getting much more enjoyment and pleasure out of her work.

Changes Her Work.

"Come work for me, I need an assistant," she said one day when the two were lunching together. Katherine returned to the store with her, filled in an application blank and started to work that very afternoon. Her pay was only $30 a month, but she decided that if she learned anything about advertising the money did not matter. Her duties were practically those of a general office clerk and she often wondered if she had made a mistake because she seemed to get no experience in writing copy. Instead, her time was occupied with cutting out the ads that her friend wrote and pasting them in a big book and then each month measuring up the space and figuring the bills. Each morning she went around to the different departments and brought up models of the articles which would be advertised the next day. She arranged them on forms and put them in a place for the artist to sketch. Often after she finished this before anyone else arrived she would sit down and write an advertisement about the things. Sometimes she would write two and three and after she had done this for several months she finally got courage enough to show them to her friend. To Katherine's surprise her friend took them and said she would use them in the next day's paper.

She got courage enough to show them to her friend.

After that Katherine began studying different kinds of type in order to know how to set her copy, and after she had mastered that by herself she began to study clothes and style. She read all the ads in every paper she could find, and especially the papers from the larger fashion centers. She bought and studied the best fashion magazines and she spent most of her lunch hour looking about in the other large stores in her city.

At the end of two years Katherine was earning just twice as much as she had earned after three years of teaching. She was doing most of the work in the advertising department and was doing it far better than it had ever been done before. Her friend, who had gradually drifted from writing copy to managing the department and doing the sketching, finally left her place to be married and Katherine, who was next in line, was given the position at a salary of $80 a week.

She Loses That Schoolmarm Look.

The big change in Katherine's life, however, was not coming every day. She herself was changing broader and slowly but surely she had shaken from her that school-teacher look. Her clothes were no longer of season-before-last; if anything, because the firm wanted her to be the exponent of their good styles, they were season-after-next kind. She did not feel that her school teaching years were entirely wasted because it was in the school about that she learned how to manage people and it was her way of doing both these things which made her one of the most popular employees in the store.

She had only been advertising manager for four months when she had an offer from a larger concern in the same city. She accepted and became a special advertising manager for the women's apparel departments only, and at a salary of $100 a week.

Now she goes to New York every month with various buyers and when she writes in an ad that there will be a sale of a "sample lot of blouses" she knows just what she is talking about for she was there when the sample lot was bought. She not only knows her end of the business, but she is well-informed upon the stock and sales and receipts of every department for which she does the advertising. She has two artists who work under her direction and two other assistants. She runs almost a pace of advertising in four daily papers, which means that she must oversee the writing, making up and proof-reading on all four of them daily. She is 25 years old, earning $100 a week and only just starting in

WHO'S WHO in the Daily News

SENATOR LENROOT.

John J. Lenroot, U. S. senator from Wisconsin, got his start in life with a sharpened pencil that was pretty well trained in the forming of stenographic symbols. If he had been born in an earlier period perhaps he would have been a school teacher or a clerk, but instead he became a court reporter.

He was not content to report court proceedings merely; he wanted to take a hand in the legal business, so he studied law when he was not reporting. He now helps make the laws of the state, and aspires to the Senate.

The important dates in Senator Lenroot's career are as follows: 1889, born at Superior, Wisconsin; 1897, was admitted to the bar; 1903-1908, member of Wisconsin house of representatives; congressman from Wisconsin, 1909-1915; elected to the U. S. senate, 1915.

Senator Lenroot is a republican. He is married and his home address is Superior, Wis.

Some Sun Flower.

Neenah, Wis.—William J. Olson, of this city, has a Sun Flower stalk 18 feet 1 1/2 inches above ground, the single sunflower topping it being 16 inches in diameter and 25 1/2 inches in circumference. The stalk is 7 inches in diameter. This is 5 1/2 inches taller than record height in the state. Half a dozen other stalks nearly approach the tall one given.
